

McCulloch Oil Backs City

McCulloch Oil Corporation of California is the parent corporation of McCulloch Properties, Inc. — developer of Lake Havasu City.

In addition to its activities at Lake Havasu City, the Company holds an important position in petroleum exploration and production, and in natural gas transmission.

The Company and its subsidiaries are active in 15 states with present activity centering around oil and gas production and management of oil exploration programs — providing all services incident to finding and developing oil and gas properties.

Under these programs, the Company has developed substantial oil and gas reserves, and is credited with discovering the largest gas well in California's history.

Sales in 1965 continued their impressive growth setting a record high for the Company's diversified operations.

Dear Friends:

The transformation of Lake Havasu City from a dream on a drawing board into a vigorous young community has been immensely rewarding for everyone associated with creation of the City.

Great strides have already been taken on this beautiful lakefront site towards our goal of making Lake Havasu City one of the finest, most modern, and most attractive cities in the United States.

Population has surged ahead of projection, and the rapid growth of the City on all fronts illustrates the progress that has been made toward establishing a complete city with a built-in payroll economy, offering people of all ages and from all parts of the country a new way of life in a resort and recreational environment.

It is my belief that at Lake Havasu City we are participating and pioneering in a uniquely American drama, and I extend a warm welcome to all future residents of the City.

Sincerely,

Robert P. McCulloch

Behind Lake Havasu City is the vast experience of two multi-million-dollar organizations. The developer, McCulloch Properties, Inc., is a wholly-owned subsidiary of McCulloch Oil Corporation of California. The agent, Holly Development Co., a subsidiary of Holly Corporation, was selected because of Holly's successful association with the development of new communities in Southern California.
